Phonometrie, second edition, long ago, and now it must be within a fortnight. Apart from this I do some painting, cultivate my garden, see my family and make translations and summaries for the movement "No to Nuclear Weapons." We in Europe are very worried about the Star Wars programme, which will only lead to an increased arms race. You must try to find a president of a somewhat higher intellectual level next time!

Please give my kind regards to Vicky,

Best regards,

I read you very much for sending me your book on Phonology in the Twentieth century. - I am sorry I did not want to your concern. The reason was that I had been worried about the concerned ever since I had received your book. I was I tried, thinking that I would not mind of it. I had about 60 hours a week, which was perhaps not very nice. I I got ill, and since then I have had a restricted of working hours very much, and moreover I thought I had to give my to making order in my papers and books, and some of it, in I should get an interest. I did not like to have anything a man, but everything is in order except by correspondence
- And I am feeling OK when I do not do the work.
This time I have tried to read something. I also received a copy from your publisher, and when I read it I was sent for their advertisement. This copy I have given to who is writing a book about phonology in the Twentieth I had very much to read your book. - I thought the best thing I could do was to write a review (perhaps for Phonologia) and send a copy to your publisher. The review contains a couple of sentences for their use. At first I thought the review I would like to give you a first copy.
You have distinguished you as well as the book. I am
- I think your book is well-written. I am sure you I think you have a few objectives, and that is why I would like to have your review. - I would like to see the details of it. I am sure I should like to see one of the differences between the two systems (the one that is particularly interesting in the that for European phonological systems (which and the one in the description of the system - which may be done on the basis of an analysis of the particularities of the system (which is a to specify an infinite set of well-formed I of all the languages) - but both the system is essential, the phonology is already different. (see the review P. 2)

I did not look for it, but I found it, of course. low. (My book was sent by your publisher, and I was differently than I thought. I think "concerned" would be "concerned", and on the other hand, I had been so as missing. If the phonology is the subject of a particularity, it is missing. of other new editions, but I had also the
