T5-

1.

Language often refers as a means of expressing thought.

This is at the same time (too little & too much).

① Too little because thought must be considered to have the same relation to language as the other side - sounds or letters, as what have you.

Translation examples

② too much because the substance is common like signs

to all languages - ~~separate~~ the sounds from a continuum which is at least potentially covered by all languages but is differently divided up. see plosives - so does the meaning. see member - sing - plus, sing - deal - plus, sing - deal - trial - plus.

because you can change the substance
