General Plans for the Congress

Subject to minor revision, the Congress activities will be as follows:

On the afternoon of Sunday, 25 August 1962, Congress participants and accompanying guests will register on the Cornell University Campus in Willard Straight Hall where an informal reception will be held at 8 p.m.

A Cornell residential hall, where single and double rooms will be available and where meals will be served, has been set aside to house the members of the Congress during the stay in Ithaca. The total cost for these accommodations, including meals, will be between $40 and $50 per person. Details of other accommodations near the University Campus will be given in Bulletin No. 3.

The opening session of the Congress will be held in the Alice Statter Auditorium at 10 a.m. on 27 August. Participants, guests and the public may attend.

The academic sessions are to be held in lecture halls of the University. They will be open only to participants and registered adult guests. Excursions are planned to the Corning Glass Museum at Corning, New York, and to other points of interest in the Cornell University area.

On the afternoon of Friday, 31 August, the Congress will move to Philadelphia, where accommodations will be available at the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, the new headquarters of the Congress. Academic sessions will be held at the Hotel and The American Philosophical Society nearby. The final banquet of the Congress is to be held in Philadelphia. Sightseeing walks and bus tours are planned in the Philadelphia area.

Travel Information

A. For Congress participants and their guests from outside the United States:

Visitors coming from abroad are urged to make their travel arrangements through Thos. Cook & Son or Wagons-Lits/Cook, the Official Travel Agent of the Congress. If enough participants agree to travel by chartered plane, a special arrangement can be made with one of the major international airlines for such a flight, leaving Paris in the late evening of 22 August. If enough participants agree to travel by air, a chartered flight leaving New York on 8 September would be organized. Chartered planes substantially reduce travel costs.

Cook offers two alternative plans for travel from New York to Cornell University for registration on 26 August:

- 1) Three days in New York with or without local sightseeing, ending with a one-hour flight to Ithaca on 26 August.
- or
- 2) Two nights in New York followed by a flight to Niagara Falls, with transportation to Ithaca on 26 August.

Travel by chartered bus from Ithaca to Philadelphia on 31 August will be arranged through Cook.

Cook also offers a sightseeing tour from Philadelphia after the Congress. The tour will include Gettysburg, Washington, D.C., Mt. Vernon, the Civil War battlefield at Gettysburg, Monticello (Thomas Jefferson's home), Richmond, Williamsburg and other points of historical interest in Virginia. The tour will end in New York in single time to connect with the return chartered flight.

Those needing financial assistance for travel should apply immediately to the appropriate National Committee of the International Union of the History and Philosophy of Science.

Most of those attending the Congress who are not U.S. citizens will need visas, and must also satisfy the requirements of the U.S. Immigration Service with respect to a recent vaccination against smallpox. It is essential that early application for a visa be made to the appropriate United States Embassy or Consulate. If difficulties are encountered in obtaining visas, please inform the Secretary of the Congress promptly.

B. For Congress participants and their guests from the United States:

Those coming from the United States may either make their own arrangements or use the services of Thos. Cook & Son. Those not travelling in their own cars should reserve with Cook for transportation from Ithaca to Philadelphia by chartered bus on 31 August. Americans who plan to be abroad that summer may find it convenient to return by the chartered flight described above.

Advance Registration

Bulletin No. 3, to be mailed in the Spring of 1962, will include a participation form to be filled out and sent to the Secretary before 1 June 1962 together with the Congress fees and payment for the accommodations and meals in Ithaca. The fee for participants is $12; and for each member of the family accompanying the participant, $5. Adequate facilities cannot be provided for children under 10 years of age. The Actes of the Congress will be sent to the participants when they are published and will also be put on general sale.

Special Note

Bulletin No. 3 will be sent ONLY to those who have returned a tear sheet either from Bulletin No. 1 or Bulletin No. 2 BEFORE 15 January 1962. Bulletin No. 3 will contain final participation forms and additional information about climate, clothing, travel details and mode of payment for accommodations and for payment of the Congress fee.
