the dawn is grey over the sea

∞ my race is as old
as the earth, and my race is as rich - but I was born young, my parents I couldn't find and my kingdom neither - my servants will not obey me, and the women around me I scorn -

∞ am I the last
cry of a drowning wave, or am I the fresh-born foam of the first approaching breakers along an unknown shore -?

∞ the patience of my pride has no limits -
but the eye of my maledom is blind -
